MUCH SPECULATION ON STEPHENSON

Marinette Man Seems To Have The Lead Thus Far-- Spooner's Resignation Is Sent To The Senate
And Assembly This Morning.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Madison, Wis., March 6.—No one seems to know which way to jump in the senatorial fight. In fact, there is but little fight as yet, all talk. Everyone talks about this candidate or that. No one man, unless it be Stephenson, appears to be really prominent. Eddie LeRoy of Marinette and Senator Bird from the same county are both Stephenson's boosters strong. Esch has his little coterie of men anxious for the lightning to strike their flagpole and Stout, who is supposed to be Hatten's mouthpiece, is silent. The report that the first congressional district assemblymen and Senators had decided to support Cooper is absolutely false. I am informed by some of the leading men from this section of the state that they have not even been asked to support the Racine congressman and should they be would be careful to consider the matter before giving an answer. It is pretty safe to eliminate Cooper from the race.

The General Talk
As I said before the talk is all under cover. Davidson and Connor have their followers, quietly they are sounding the situation to report to their chiefs. It is safe to say that one of the two will appear as the dark horse at least. Houser I should say was badly handicapped. LeRoy is a possibility that must be reckoned with if the junior Senator gives him his sanction to run. Jenkins and Congressman Davidson are spoken of but have shown no strength as yet, so their chances are questionable. I have even heard Stout and Whitehead's names mentioned, but do not think the conversation was serious, although both are strong men well fitted for the position. In fact, this is the period between and betwixt. The sudden announcement of Spooner's retirement has left everyone in the lurch and the start has been an even one. Thus far honors are even although Stephenson has a bit the advantage thus far and is most talked of. However matters will be lined up within a day or two at the most, so some idea can be obtained of what is working behind the scenes.

Pays Its Tribute
One of the prettiest features of the whole legislative session to my mind was enacted this morning when the members of the Assembly by a standing vote adopted a tribute to Senator Spooner. This scene came just atter Governor Davidson had transmitted to both houses of the legislature the copy of Senator Spooner's resignation and accompanied it with a recommendation that immediate action be taken toward the election of his successor. Almost immediately a resolution was presented which paid tribute to the Senator and it was adopted by the members of the Assembly with a rising vote.

Capital Bill.
The senate advanced to engrossment the bill to authorize the capitol commission to purchase land and build a separate heating plant and warehouse, and determining that the superstructure of the new capitol be of white granite or marble. The action followed an extensive discussion of the amendments of Senator Marsh to provide that the bill not increase the 40 cent limit of cost as set by the last legislature, beyond $1,000,000 for the entire building. Senator Whitehead opposed the amendment for the reason that the limit of cost could better be adjusted later. The vote was 17 to 16 against the amendment. Against the amendment were: Senators Barker, Brazeau, Fairchild, Hudnall, Lockney, Martin, Morris, Munson, Noble, Randolph, Roehr, Rummel, Sanborn, Scandall, Stout, Whitehead, Wilcox. For the amendment were: Bird, Bishop, Brown, Burns, Fridt, Froemming, Hagemeister, Haselwood, Huston, Marsh, Owen, Page, Pearson, Smith, Wolff, Wright.

New Bills.
The committee on engrossed bills introduced two new bills for Senator Huston, one being an old friend of many legislatures, commanding the competing telephone companies to establish connections so that patrons of one system could communicate with the patrons of the other, and a bill to allow any citizen to make complaint against a drunkard to have him forbidden the sale of liquor.

The Plans.
The apparent preparation of various congressmen and Governor Davidson to enter the senatorial contest has rather minimized the chances of Isaac Stephenson although nothing more is given out as to the candidates of Cooper, Esch, and others. It seems assured today there will be a general scramble for Spooner's shoes. Friends of Governor Davidson are openly soliciting votes for him. Many members are waiting to hear La Follette's choice.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Except for the loss of one eye, his personal appearance is little changed. The trial will take place at the new Old Bailey and will be the first case of importance to be heard there. The public is looking forward to the trial with much interest as it is believed the evidence will be of a most extraordinary character. Part of the defence, it is rumored, will be a great surprise to the prosecution as well as the public.

CALIFORNIAN AND BOSTONIAN READY

Joe Thomas and "Honey" Melody, Matched for Fight in Philadelphia Tonight.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Philadelphia, Pa., March 6.—Trained to the hour, "Honey" Melody of Boston and Joe Thomas of California are waiting for the going to call them into the arena of the National Athletic club tonight, where they will endeavor to settle their respective claims to the welterweight championship. The articles of agreement call for a six-round go at 145 pounds. It has a long time since a fight here has aroused so much interest and from all indications there will be a record-breaking crowd at the ringside. As the fight will go only six rounds and will be without a decision, it is not probable that the result will have any great bearing on the championship title. The bout will serve to show, however, the relative merits of the two fighters. Melody claims the welterweight title by reason of his defeat of Joe Walcott at Chelsea last November, since which time he has been generally regarded as the champion. The claims of Thomas are based on the fact that he defeated Melody, but as this was before Melody won the title from Walcott it is difficult to figure out the ring circles regard the two as pretty evenly matched. Melody is slightly favored over Thomas because of his greater experience in the ring. He has been fighting six years, during which time he has met Walcott, Willie Lewis, Jack Dougherty, Charlie McKeever, Dick Fitzpatrick, Jack O'Keefe, and many other good fighters. The best fights Thomas has had were with Melody and Al Neill.

Billy Rhodes vs. Bill Papke.
Peoria Ill., March 6.—At the Peoria athletic club tonight Bill Papke, the Spring Valley miner who has made an excellent showing in the several fights he has had recently will be given the first real test of his strength and skill. The conditions for tonight's fight call for a ten-round go at 150 pounds.

BIG TERMINAL FOR BROOKLYN BRIDGE

Three Blocks of Buildings on Brooklyn Side Will Be Removed to Relieve Congestion.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, March 6.—One of the most notable changes that has taken place in lower New York in many years will result from the removal of the three blocks of buildings which were put up at public sale today preparatory to being torn down to make room for the new Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn bridge. The buildings to be removed include all the structures occupying the three blocks extending northward from the present bridge terminal and located between Center street on the west and Park Row on the east. The most notable structure of the lot is the Staats-Zeitung building, which has been a conspicuous landmark at the junction of Park Row and Center street for many years. All the buildings are to be removed by April 6, when work will be commenced immediately on the new terminal, the completion of which is expected to go far toward relieving the present congestion of traffic at the entrance to the bridge.

report of the committee of fifteen which was submitted at the conference on uniform insurance legislation last December. The committee reports that, on the whole, they found the four companies under investigation have been carefully administered and their funds generally well invested. The salaries of the officers are not so high as to require restrictive legislation.

ACTIONS AGAINST ST. PAUL ROAD

Three of Them Are Noticed for Trial Immediately Following Brown Case—$35,000 Damages Asked.

Three damage actions against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Co. are noticed for trial immediately following the Brown vs. the City of Janesville action and it is possible that the first of them will be commenced tomorrow. Two of them have the same title: Maud M. Taylor as administratrix of the estate of the late Joseph B. Green being the plaintiff in both instances. H. B. Tate is the plaintiff in the third one. Thomas S. Nolan represents the defense in all three cases and he will be assisted by Charles E. Vroman, assistant general solicitor of the railroad. Ruger & Ruger are the counsel for Mrs. Taylor and Wheeler & Dunwidie are to appear for Mr. Tate.

The Green cases arise out of the tragedy at the McKee boulevard crossing on the 18th of July, 1904, wherein J. B. Green and his wife, Sarah Green, lost their lives. They were driving at the time, it will be recalled, and the buggy was struck by the locomotive bringing in the passenger train from Chicago. Mrs. Green was instantly killed and Mr. Green was so seriously injured that he died a few hours later. The couple had two children, and the son, Charles E. Green, was first appointed administrator of the estate and, as such, commenced two actions against the railroad company on the 18th of October, 1904. One of these actions was to recover damages for the pain and suffering alleged to have been endured by Mr. Green after his injury and prior to his death in the sum of $25,000 and the other was to recover in the sum of $5,000 for pecuniary loss to the family by reason of the killing, resulting from alleged negligence on the part of the company. On the third of January, this year, Mr. Green's resignation as administrator was filed and his sister, Mrs. Maud Taylor of Beloit, was appointed to fill the vacancy. With Mrs. Taylor as administratrix, the cases were continued.

The circumstances leading up to the Tate case against the railroad were as follows: On the 9th of September, 1906, the plaintiff bought tickets to Monroe for himself and son at the local station. When the train reached the city of Brodhead the passenger coach in which they were riding was out off from the freight train to which it had been attached and a caboose taken on in its place. While Mr. Tate was sitting in the caboose with other passengers it is alleged that cars were backed down to couple with it; that the impact was of such force as to throw him off his seat and against one of the caboose doors on which there was an old-fashioned thumb-latch; that the left side of his neck came in contact with this latch and a wound was inflicted, though subsequently healed, resulted in the contraction of the cords and muscles on that side to such an extent that his head was drawn to the left in the direction of the shoulder and he has since been unable to straighten it. The plaintiff claims that these injuries are permanent and asks $5,000 damages. He was formerly employed as foreman in the R. & B. J. power-house and also followed various other occupations, acting as helper in the Beloit Iron Works for a time. Just prior to the accident he was making a tour of the county fairs with his son, selling cheap jewelry, etc. They were on their way to the Monroe fair when the mishap occurred.

JEROME BEGINS NEW TACK WITH WITNESS

Tries to Have Dr. Wagner Say That Thaw Was Drunk When He Killed White.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
New York, March 6.—The way was cleared this morning for the taking of the testimony of Mrs. William Thaw at the trial of her son, Harry K. Thaw, for the murder of Stanford Jerome having concluded his long cross-examination of Dr. Chas. G. Wagner. Jerome today took a new tack in the cross-examination of Wagner and asked if in the acts surrounding the killing of White there was anything to enable the witness to differentiate between insanity and intoxication. Dr. Wagner declared there was nothing whatever to indicate intoxication, but much to indicate insanity. Dr. Wagner testified Thaw was of unsound mind when he married, but had sufficient intelligence to know what he was doing.

Mrs. William Thaw was the first witness called after the recess. She said she had noticed a change in her son when he came to Pittsburgh in 1902. He was absent-minded and apparently had lost all interest in life. Mrs. Thaw broke down and cried while narrating the change in her son following his trip to Europe with Evelyn in 1903. In explaining the changed condition to her Mrs. Thaw said Harry told her the "wickedest man in New York had ruined his life." Mrs. Thaw after recovering from her first breakdown seemed about to cry again and could not proceed when Justice Fitzgerald relieved the situation by ordering all her testimony to that time read to the jury. It had been given in a voice too low for the jury to hear.

In arguing on an objection by Jerome, Delmas, said he would invoke the rule of the law that Thaw being insane in 1903 he continued to be insane in 1904. "If that assumption is sound," said Jerome, "there is no reason to believe the defendant is not insane today and it becomes the duty of the court to suspend the trial."

Jerome said he was not suggesting the appointment of a commission in lunacy at this time, but was advocating the point as an argument on the question as to whether Mrs. Thaw should be allowed to repeat all her conversations with her son. Justice Fitzgerald overruled Jerome's objection to Mrs. Thaw's telling the conversation with her son and he said the question of the appointment of a lunacy commission was not before the court. Mrs. Thaw said she came to New York in 1905 to meet Evelyn Nesbit and then gave her approbation to the marriage with Harry. Mrs. Thaw said she laid down one condition as to the marriage—that Evelyn's past should be a closed book never to be referred to.

INSIDE HISTORY OF THE SPEECHES

HOW CONGRESSMEN PAY TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD MEMBERS.
 WRITTEN BY PAID HACKS

Some Epitaphs That I Have Found in History Which Exalt the Virtues of the Deceased.
 (Special Correspondence.)
 Washington, D. C., March 6.—When not engaged in regulating the affairs of the nation or criticizing those who are engaged with legislation, I sometimes turn my attention to other things. The question of eulogies, for instance. Eulogies of deceased senators and congressmen as usually a farce. Sometimes a great man passes away, and the body of which he was a member very properly pays tribute to his public services and private life. To that extent the custom of congressional eulogies is worthy of approval. But it is carried to the extent that no matter who it is that dies,
 the fact that he is found on the pay roll of house or senate as a member,
 is considered ample justification for suspending public business that his colleagues may pay tribute to his virtues, many of them not discovered until his death. Congress takes good care of its own and buries its dead at considerable expense. I know a case where a very wealthy senator died
 and was buried out of the senate contingent fund. Among the funeral expenses was a charge for a new pair of shoes for the corpse. The total expense ran up to nearly five thousand dollars.

Generally, when a member dies, he has something on record which his colleagues can review in a complimentary manner, but often he has just come into public life, and then the eulogizers are hard pressed for something to say about him. More than once, when I was on the floor of the house, have I had members say to me:
 "For heaven's sake tell me something about Blank. We are going to bury him, and I am down for a speech."
 These exercises are always referred to as "burying" a member. In many instances the beautiful, tender tributes which are paid to members of the house whose membership was scarcely noticed until their death, except by the sergeant-at-arms, who paid them,
 are written by professional speech-writers and not by the members who deliver them. It is not, perhaps, generally known that many of the set speeches delivered in the house and senate are written by private secretaries, newspaper men and others, and then distributed broadcast under the government frank among the constituents of the member delivering the speech as though it was the product of his own brain. From congressional eulogies to epitaphs is not a long one.
 Who first placed on a tomb an inscription reciting the good deeds of the buried one is of little or no importance. The oldest Egyptian tombs bear them. We can almost read the story of Greece and Rome on the tombs of each country. There is a marked difference, however, between the ancient Egyptian epitaphs and those of Greece and Rome. The old Egyptians generally wrote their epi-taphs on the coffins instead of on the tombs. As a rule they began with a prayer and ended with boasting of the deeds of the deceased. What a bragging set of old duffers the Egyptian

Food Poisons.

90 Per Cent of All Diseases the Result of Undigested Putrefying Foods.
 Men of affairs, women of society
 and children with active brains are too often sedentary in their habits, giving little time to exercise. To this evil is added that of high and irregular living—as a result, the stomach cannot stand the demands made upon
 it. The abused and overtaxed stomach does not properly do the work of digestion, food taken in ferments and the poison permeates the whole system. The body loses in weight and becomes a prey for the attack of whatever disease it may encounter.
 Did it ever occur to you how busy that stomach of yours is? It only holds three pints, but in one year you force it to take in 2,400 pounds of material, digest it and prepare it for assimilation into the blood. No wonder it rebels when overworked. We crowd it with steaks and pastry, irritate
 its juices with spices and acids,
 and expect the stomach to do its work. It can't do it.

All over the inner layer of the stomach are glands which secrete the juices necessary to digestion. The entrance of food into the stomach is the signal for these glands to do their work. The more the food and the more indigestible, the greater the demand upon them and upon the muscles of the wall adjoining.
 Think of the tons of high-seasoned game, sweetmeats, and appetizers
 crammed into this little four-ounce mill, and then wonder, if you will,
 why you are dizzy, nauseated, constipated. Don't blame your stomach or curse your fate that you should be born so unfortunate. Blame yourself and apply the remedy.
 First, get a small package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, taking one after each meal and at bed time.
 They are not a medicine, but a digestive. Your stomach is worn out and needs help, not medicine. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work that the stomach fails to do.
 There's enough power in one grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to digest
 3,000 grains of ordinary food, so you needn't fear that anything you eat
 will remain in your stomach undigested.

Pharaohs were anyway!
 The ancient Greek epitaphs are of great literary interest. Usually they are very tender and rich in expression. The old-time Greeks were given to poetry as well as to philosophy,
 and they combined the two in the work of writing epitaphs. Rhymes are never found among Greek epi-taphs, but they partake more or less of poetic imagery and expression.
 The Romans were the terest and most direct history writers of the world and they were equally terse and direct in composing epitaphs. They confined themselves to a simple and direct statement of fact, without flourish or vain boasting.
 In all ages, and among all peoples
 there have been instances of rare tenderness and beauty in epitaphic rings. There can be found anything more tender or beautiful than the epitaph written by Robert Burns for his father's tomb, containing the lines:
 "Here lies the loving husband's dear remains"
 The tender father and the generous friend."

Shakespeare wrote the epitaph of Ben Johnson, his friends and only companion, and it consists of only four words, on the tablet to his memory in Westminster Abbey, and it will stand for all time as a classic. A volume could not tell more than the four words express:
 "O! Rare Ben Johnson."
 It is a history, a biography, a critique, a tribute, all in one. It is a monument to Johnson and to Shakespeare combined. How different is the great poet's own epitaph in that same Westminster Abbey, and it too, was of his own authorship. It reads:
 "The cloud-capped towers, the gorges palaces, the solemn temples, the great globe itself, yea, all which it inherits,
 shall dissolve, and like a baseless fabric of a vision, leave not a wreck behind."

In an obscure graveyard in London
 may be seen the grave of one who, if ever an Englishman subject deserved
 a place in Westminster Abbey, he should have occupied a most prominent position. Who erected the stone or caused it to be carved is not known, but the epitaph is simple, like the life of him it commemorates. It reads:
 MR. JOHN BUNYAN,
 Author of the Pilgrim's Progress.
 Obd. August 31st, 1688.
 Aged 60 Years.

What better story could have been told in an inscription than that he was the author of the Pilgrim's Progress?
 He needs no brass or marble tablet
 in Westminster, no long epitaph to tell his virtues, his sufferings, or what he accomplished.
 Our own Jefferson must have felt something like this, when he wrote his own epitaph. He had been the third president of the new republic, had led a great political party to triumph, been classed by his fellows among the great statesmen of the world, but nothing is said of all this
 in his epitaph.

Jefferson Lies Buried
 THOMAS JEFFERSON
 Author of the Declaration of Independence.
 Of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom,
 And Father of the University of Virginia.
 Benjamin Franklin was another who wrote his own epitaph. Franklin was gifted in epigrammatic writing, in condensing much in little space, and in constructing wise proverbs. He wrote:
 The Body of Benjamin Franklin, printer.
 (Like the cover of an old book, it's contents torn out and stripped of its lettering and gilding)
 lies here, food for worms.
 But the work shall not be lost, for it will (as he believed) appear once more.
 In a new and more elegant edition,
 revised and annotated by the Author.
 Written in 1788.
 Franklin and Jefferson were not the only distinguished Americans who wrote their own epitaphs. In the early days of Virginia one of the most prominent and wealthy citizens of the colony was John Custis. According to tradition he married a wife who might have rivaled the one who led old Socrates such a merry chase after happiness, by showing a will and temper of her own. It is evident that he could not make even with his wife during his life time, and was not willing to forego his revenge, so he prepared to perpetuate it in enduring marble. He wrote his epitaph, and to make sure it would be placed on his tomb, provided in his will that his son and heir should forfeit his fortune unless he caused to be erected a monument to cost 500 pounds sterling, and on it should place the epitaph he had written:
 "Under this marble tomb lies
 the body of Hon. John Custis, Esq., of the city of Williamsburg,
 and parish of Burton, formerly of the Hungarian parish on the

HARDY VERSATILE AS ENTERTAINER

Pleased Large Audience With His Lecture, Monologue, and Song Program Last Evening.
 Jansville City Lodge, No. 90, I. O.
 O. F. and friends, enjoyed "An Evening with Hardy" at the west side hall last evening. The entire entertainment was planned and carried out by E. A. Hardy, the well known local business man, and for two hours he held the attention of a large audience with his monologue history of the Odd Fellows order, important points being thrown into relief and emphasized by a series of amusing anecdotes which were remarkably well told. There were stereotyped views of the Odd Fellows' home at Green Bay, for the benefit of which the entertainment was arranged, and Mr. Hardy closed his program by singing a southern dialect song to the accompaniment of piano and violin. The audience was a large and appreciative one.

NEXT SECTION WILL BE MOST PLEASING

Interest in the Gazette's Magazine
 Section Is Most Gratifying to the Management.
 Excellent reading and much interest displayed by the subscribers of the Gazette in the Magazine Section leads to another work regarding the forthcoming magazine for Saturday night. The opening story is entitled "A Burglar of Enterprise." It is the mystery of a man who had a talking personality and is written by Edith Fullerton Scott. H. Sundby-Hansen
 writes of the skes, "Norway's National Sport." Opie Read has a story entitled "A House on the Hill." Richard A. Haste writes again of "Protecting the Life of the Home Town."
 Vincent Towne writes on "The Thirst of the Desert." Sara Guimpe tells of "Woman and Her Ways" and C.
 G. Grant of "The Ghost of the Moonlight Sonata." Chapter nineteen of "When Wilderness Was King" is stirring enough for any reader and Randall Parrish's picture of the little garrison leaving the stockade at Ft. Dearborn to meet their death at the hands of the savage Indians is wonderful.
 "Slas" Trendwell writes on "A National Drainage Law" and a charming bit of stage life among the playfolk is worth reading. Alice F. Jackson has another story for the children entitled "The Cobra's Treasure" and,
 of course, there is the story of the Bandit Mouse who played in the baby's hair. The entire magazine is replete with interesting reading from cover to cover.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.
 You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without
 Destroying the Cause of it.
 Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff,
 and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide

 Evening.
 Again last evening the Hunt Stock
 Co. which opened its week's engage-

 an excellent impression on a large and appreciative audience. "Down at Martin's" one of the repertory of new and interesting plays, was presented with M. A. Hunt in the role of the detective and Miss Kate Fitzgibbon playing the part of the heroine. Both were excellent in their respective delineations and the support which included P. D. Quinn as the wicked
 "Phil Anislee," Charles Cline as
 "Daniel Martin," and A. C. Knight as
 "Hank Whittier," was uniformly good.
 Mr. Knight sang some droll songs and there were moving pictures and other excellent specialties between the acts.
 Tonight's bill is a stirring melodrama,
 "The Counterfeiters."

NEED VINOL
 its cod liver tonic elements
 create vitality and strength
 There are hundreds of women in Jansville weak, thin, run-down, tired out and nervous, just in a condition
 to fall a prey to any disease.
 Our local druggists, the Smith Drug Co., say such women need Vinol, their vitality making and strength creating tonic.
 Vinol is not a patent medicine, but the medicinal elements of good old cod liver oil, liver oil in a highly concentrated form—taken from fresh cods' livers—the useless oil eliminated
 and tonic iron added.
 This is why it creates an appetite, tones up the digestive organs, makes rich red blood and replaces weakness
 with strength.
 We ask every weak, thin, run-down nervous and aged person in Jansville
 to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it does not benefit them.

George W. Perkins

Mr. George Walbridge Perkins, the big financier and well-known figure in Wall street, was born in Chicago on January 31, 1862. He received a common school education and was married early in life. Mr. Perkins began his business career as a bookkeeper in the Chicago office of the New York Life Insurance company, and was made cashier in 1881 and inspector of agencies in 1885. He became second vice president in 1898 and first vice president in 1902. As Mr. Perkins had by this time become well instructed in Wall street matters he was taken into the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. in 1901 and was made a director in many of the big corporations founded with the aid of the great Morgan financial backing. Mr. Perkins lives at Riverdale, N. Y.

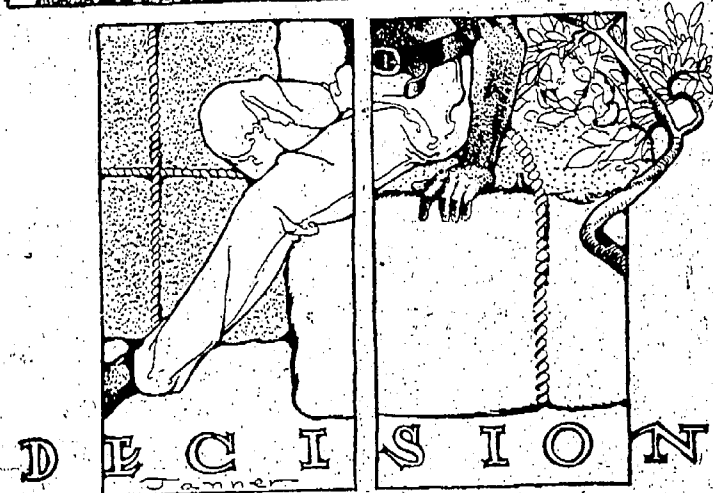

Before The Footlights.

At the Myers theatre on Tuesday, March 12, Bertha Kalich, who will be remembered by reason of her great success last season in "Monna Vanna," will appear in the English adaptation by Langdon Mitchell of Jacob Gordin's notable Yiddish play "The Kreutzer Sonata." Under the direction of Harrison Grey Piske, Mme. Kalich established herself firmly in the esteem of playgoers throughout the country. "The Kreutzer Sonata" was written especially for Madame Kalich and she appeared in it with great success in the Jewish theatres in New York. It was the most popular of all the plays in her repertoire, and for that reason as well as because of the fact that it was the most adaptable to the English stage, it has been selected as Madame Kalich's vehicle for that reason as well as because of the original play, and has made it in form and literary quality a drama that will measure well with the best standards of the modern English-speaking stage.

The scenes of the play are laid in Russia and in New York, at the present time, and the characters belong to the most part, to that better class of the foreign-born, whose idea in coming to America is for the larger money rather than for the larger money. Miriam Friedlander, the heroine, a Jewess, having been disinherited among her own people for her love for a Christian—an officer of the Russian army—is forced by her father to marry a Jewish musician of a social grade far beneath her own, and to emigrate with him to America where they establish a studio in New York. Almost immediately the husband, Gregor, assuming towards his wife, a sneering attitude of superiority, taunting her with the fact that her child, David, is illegitimate. In order to make amends to her father for the disgrace she has brought upon the family, and for the sake of her son, Miriam endures the misery of her life with Gregor. Gradually, however, the situation becomes intolerable because of the fact that she realizes that her husband is in love with her sister, Colia. She faces, day after day, a condition that upon one word from her would be transformed into a tragedy for those she loves. The nobility of the character lies in the fortitude with which she keeps silent, but at the same time the strain of keeping silent wears upon her brain, and gradually brings insanity upon her.

The role of Miriam is one that is said to bring forward the very best emotional power of Madame Kalich, and the play has a human interest that must appeal to everyone. The actress is supported this year by an exceptionally strong company which includes Theodore Roberts, George S. Spencer, Claus Bogel, George Christie, Adele Block, Jennie Reiff, Mary E. Barker, Josephine Florence Shepard, Josephine Victor and Gladys Huette.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

PANAMA TRADE
Exports from the United States to Panama now average more than one million dollars a month, and our total trade with that republic seems likely to aggregate 16 million dollars in the fiscal year which ends with the month of June. Bananas, India rubber, hides and skins, vegetable ivory, and mahogany are the principal articles imported from Panama, and their value in the year will aggregate about 2 million dollars. Meats, lard, flour, bread and biscuit, fish, butter, cheese, cotton cloths and clothing, vegetable and mineral oils, tobacco, wines, spirits, liquors, timber, lumber, and manufactures of iron and steel of various sorts are the principal articles exported to Panama, and the exports to that republic now constantly exceed one million dollars per month, and in the full year will probably exceed 14 million dollars.

Both the imports from Panama and the exports to that republic show a marked increase in 1907, compared with 1906. The figures of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, just compiled, show the details of our trade with Panama during the seven months ending with January, 1907. This seven-month period being that part of the fiscal year ending with June, 1907, for which figures are now available. These figures, which will hereafter be published in detail in the Monthly Summary of Commerce and Finance, show the movements of hundreds of articles from the United States to Panama for the latest available month, and compare the figures of that month with the corresponding month of the preceding year; also for the accumulated months of the year, compared with corresponding months of the immediately preceding year.

These figures of the trade with Panama in the month of January, 1907, and the seven months ending with January, 1907, indicate a rapid growth in both our imports from Panama and our exports to that country. Bananas are the largest single item of the practically one million dollars worth of merchandise imported therefrom in the seven months ending with January, 1907, the value of bananas alone being $471,870, against $333,217 in the corresponding months of the preceding year. India rubber, of which the United States is steadily increasing her importations and consumption, amounted to $31,720, against $55,028 in the corresponding months of the preceding year. Of vegetable ivory the imports from Panama were nearly 2 million pounds in the seven months, against a little over a half million pounds in the same months of last year. Of hides the figures were nearly a half million pounds, against less than 300,000 pounds in the corresponding months of the preceding year, and of coffee 175,000 pounds, against 25,000 pounds in the same months of last year.

The articles forming the more than one million dollars worth of merchandise exported to Panama each month are not as might be supposed, exclusively, or in a large proportion, for direct use in canal construction, as is evidenced by the fact that cotton cloth, flour, bread and biscuit, eggs, fish, fruits, furniture, manufactures of India rubber, boots, and shoes; canned, salted, and fresh beef; bacon, hams, pork, and lard; oleomargarine; butter, cheese, and milk; cotton seed oil; mineral oil for lighting; wines, distilled spirits, and malt liquors; refined sugar, vegetables, soap, and tobacco are included in the statement of articles exported to Panama, and show a marked increase in 1907 over 1906. Manufactures of iron and steel are, however, a considerable item in the exports to Panama and presumably a large part of those who are for use in canal work.

For the seven months ending with January, 1907, iron and steel manufactures sent to Panama aggregated a little over 2 million dollars, against a little less than 2 millions in the same months of the preceding year. The fact, however, that meat and dairy products aggregated three-quarters of a million dollars; boots, and shoes, nearly $200,000; lard, over a quarter of a million; and breadstuffs, over a quarter of a million, shows that the exports to Panama are not by any means exclusively for the canal or for the use of the government in building it, but that a large proportion is for individual and personal consumption by persons residing in Panama. How much of this large purchase of products of the United States is made by or for that element of the population engaged in canal construction or canal work of any kind can not, of course, be accurately estimated; but at least the figures of the Bureau of Statistics show clearly that only a comparatively small proportion of the merchandise now being sent to Panama is for direct use in canal construction.

The growth of our trade with Panama is shown by the fact that the imports from that republic in the calendar year 1904, the first year of its existence, were $312,947; in 1905, $379,145; and in 1906, $1,448,036; and the exports to Panama were, in 1904, $2,633,801; in 1905, $7,831,564; and in 1906, $14,239,471.

SENATORIAL QUESTION

It has been decided that the legislature shall vote at once upon a successor to Senator John C. Spooner. The newspaper correspondents are busy "doping" the chances of the candidates prominent among whom is Isaac Stephenson of Marinette. As usual the Milwaukee Journal is in the thick of the fray telling the legislators and the state at large who should be chosen. Gradually the papers throughout the state are selecting their candidate and endorsing him. La Crosse has John Esch, Marinette Isaac Stephenson, and so they are divided. Telephone communication with Madison this morning says that the situation is still in a condition of "status quo." Nothing definite can be done yet until the matter has been thoroughly discussed. It is safe to say, however, that the reports that this delegation or that are pledged to one or another of the candidates is false. Thus far the Rock county four have not expressed their opinion.

HONEST REGRET

Papers all over the country are showing honest regret at the resignation of John C. Spooner. Even Ben. Tillman, whom Spooner has most unmercifully flayed, is sorry that the country is to lose the service of so distinguished a statesman. It is tributes like this that make the citizens of Wisconsin proud of the man who has represented them for sixteen years in the highest branch of the national government. John C. Spooner will succeed in his private and business life as he has in his public life and the best of wishes go with him in his retirement as a public servant.

FROM JACKSON TO ROOSEVELT

The signing of the Aldrich bill is the first important step in the abolishing of the independent treasury system which was established in Van Buren's administration as a result of Jackson's war on the United States bank. From Jackson to Roosevelt covers a period of over seventy years.

LOGORRHOEA

"Logorrhoea," a word meaning an excessive flow of words, is a product of the Thaw trial. It is one of the few useful things that have come from that trial. If, however, "logorrhoea" is a sign of insanity, what an awful lot of insanity must have found its way into our legislative assemblies.

Dear old sleepy State Journal has decided that it does not want Ike Stephenson for United States Senator. If anything will elect him to this office it is the opposition of the State Journal. The Old Never Right and Always Wrong sheet will wake up some day to its own absurdities.

Criticism of public officials is the easiest thing in the world, but pinning rumors down to facts is the hardest. It is easy enough to tell stories of misdeeds, but hard work to prove them. Rumors are dangerous.

So Mister Jerome got mad and admitted that Thaw was crazy when he killed White. Well, coming from the district attorney this is an admission that the defense will not lose sight of.

The plan for a gigantic state park at Madison to set off the new capitol building has not died, but is merely dormant. See. It will bob up again soon with the Milwaukee papers sponsores for it this time.

So Harriman resents the idea that the bumps on Roosevelt's head mean business. Well just wait, Mr. Harriman, and after you are hit by the big stick have one examine the bumps on your head.

All Madison waits the coming struggle for the Senatorship. It is safe to say that the affair will be all cut and dried long before the general public knows anything about it.

Roosevelt will have hard work to find another champion in debate to fill the place made vacant by the withdrawal of Spooner from the Senate.

Here they go again. Over the seas to visit Panama this time. To be a congressman and not junket is not to be in the swim.

When that question of senatorship comes up in Madison soon there will be a lot of fellows wondering what hit them.

That groundhog was all right when he said something pointed about six weeks more of cold weather.

The fight for the nominations is now in the open. Watch the politicians keep the fur flying.

A mistake has been made the Gazette makes haste to remedy. There is a republican candidate in the fourth ward for alderman.

The coal man is still busy as a bee in summer with a good crop of buckwheat in the next field.

PRESS COMMENT.

May He Realize Them.

Chicago Chronicle: Nobody doubts that Senator Spooner is a man of fine abilities and that he has been as pure and disinterested as any other man in public life, and everybody, in the west particularly, will be glad to see him realize his fondest expectations of prosperity and happiness in his new role, whatever that may be.

Beneath His Dignity.

Chicago Tribune: I hate to see you go, Spooner, and there isn't any necessity for it, either. You could make a lot of money on the side by lecturing.—The Hon. Ben Tillman.

Warns Against Anti-Climax.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Wisconsin has held a commanding place in the national senate. In choosing a successor to Mr. Spooner let us not have a slump, that will set the state to laughing over an anti-climax.

Tribute From Grilled Colleague.

Exchange: Senator Spooner's recent scathing attack on Senator Tillman is fresh in memory. But no tribute to Senator Spooner's wonderful ability and integrity, and high purpose is warmer than Senator Tillman's.

Seems Rather Weak-Kneed.

Madison Journal: Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Janesville and Fond du Lac papers warmly commend Senator Spooner's anti-extension plan. By it it should not be carried out Senator Spooner serves much praise for the conception.

Capt. Pliny a Watch-Dog.

Madison Democrat: Some one ought to start a voting contest, to determine to whom should be awarded the title "Watch dog" of the treasury. There would be at least a score of entries in the assembly with Bancroft and Nordcross well up at the front.

Something in Christian Science.

Jewell City (Kan.) Republican: A new kind of an honest man has appeared here. He was drawing a pension, but the Christian Scientists have convinced him that nothing is the matter with him he has surrendered his pension. When Christian Science can separate a man from his pension there must be something in it.

John L. Warns Thaw.

Milwaukee Free Press: John L. Sullivan advises Harry K. Thaw to stick to Evelyn if he goes free, for if he does it "will be her work." "And if Thaw goes free, as I think he will, he'd better stick to that woman. If he doesn't—well, you may say for me that it won't be good for him," says John L. With this gentle warning in mind Thaw may "stick" for a time, anyway.

Speaks Out For Esch.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Should the republicans of Wisconsin wish to avoid a choice between the administration and anti-administration factions, Congressman Esch would be the logical choice. Mr. Esch has been the most prominent member of the Wisconsin delegation at Washington this winter. He is the author of the most important law adopted at the short session—that limiting the hours of continuous employment on railway trains.

Whitehead Mentioned.

Madison Journal: The men now being mentioned are Gov. Davidson, State Senator Whitehead, Lieut. Gov. Connor, Congressman Jenkins, Esch, and Cooper, and Isaac Stephenson. It is hinted in certain circles, too, that Senator La Follette will enter his Superior filly, Mr. Lenroot of Superior, in the race. And the possibility of Walter Houser being mentioned must not be overlooked. Gov. Davidson's position, his strength at the primaries and in the general election, would give him a decided advantage over the others, should he become a candidate. But it will be time enough to discuss the availability and merits of the candidates after they have announced themselves as such.

From Uncle Ike's Home, City.

Marinette Eagle-Star: Not only did Mr. Stephenson serve the people of the state and his district in congress with ability and fidelity for several terms, but in point of party help by counsel and in other ways, he has been foremost in the republican party for many years. His election to the senate would be a fitting climax to his career. Mr. Stephenson is right on all of the public questions now before the people. He believes in the reformation of the tariff to meet present conditions, and has expressed himself forcibly to that effect. He is also on record as being in favor of the regulation of all public service corporations, by legislation which will safeguard the rights of the public while not unjustly curtailing the legitimate income of the companies regulated.

Oshkosh Paper For Stephenson.

Oshkosh Northwestern: With the prospect of such a dilemma, and the practical certainty that the multiplicity of aspirants will result in wide spread division and the possibility of long and tedious deadlock, at least one of the candidates among those already mentioned seems to offer a happy solution of the problem. Hon. Isaac Stephenson, who has previously been a prominent candidate for this same place, is actuated by an ambition for the honor alone. For years has been a prominent and respected leader in the republican party of this state, and it would be a fitting reward for his personal services to send him to the senate to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Spooner. Two years service would doubtless gratify the ambition of Mr. Stephenson, and by that time the people of the state would be ready to select a senator for themselves, under the operation of the primary law.

This is a point that is likely to receive consideration in the coming discussion of Senator Spooner's successor. Other candidates would doubtless make use of a short term to secure a reelection for a full term to follow. Mr. Stephenson by openly declaring his intention of retiring at the end of the unexpired term can make himself a formidable candidate.

Not Without Reward.

Chicago Tribune: But while Senator Spooner has earned less in the senate than he could have earned at the bar, he has had something on which no money could be placed. He has had the sense of power. He has been influential in a body which he looks on as "the greatest legislative body in the world." He has been conspicuously identified with important legislation. Instead of sitting in his private office giving advice to clients, he has had "the delight of battle with his peers" while the whole country was looking on. It is the duty of the man who has a gift, for legislative work to serve the public, and he does not deserve extravagant praise for doing his duty, even though he be a poor man thereby. But the performance of a duty in this instance at least has brought ample compensation. Senator Spooner has no occasion to regret his years of service. It is quite possible that there will be times during the coming years of active and profitable professional labor when he will wish himself back in the congenial atmosphere of the senate. There may be occasions when the republican party will wish he were there.

The 59th Congress.

Chicago News: It has won a high and honorable place in the history of national legislation. By its work a new note has been struck in the public affairs of the American people. That note is bound to remain dominant so long as the people are true to their own interests and to the cause of justice.

For many years the people had been enamored of success. They looked with admiration, almost with awe, upon those men who acquired great wealth in the lines of activity placed within their reach by the marvelous resources of the new and growing country, by national legislation for the protection of home industries and by monopolies obtained through franchises or other exclusive grants. So blinded were they by the glitter of success that the methods employed to win it did not seem to matter particularly. When they themselves felt the pinch of masterful methods applied to the problem of selling inferior products at high prices they were prone to take a humorous view of their experience. Catching the spirit of the thing, many set out deliberately to establish on similar lines winning games of their own. The time for that is passing. The congress which dies today has done much to bring it to a close.

The law enacted by the 59th congress placing railroad-rate regulation in the hands of the national authorities has made it clear that discrimination among shippers must stop. The goods of any one man are to be shipped as readily and at as low a rate as the goods of any other man. In view of the fact that rebates and other forms of favoritism by railroads played a most important part in building up monopolies throughout the nation this change is almost revolutionary. The 59th congress also decreed that the innumerable army of adulterators, of dealers in boxed or bottled false pretenses, who swindled as a recognized occupation, must turn honest or go out of business. An excellent pure-food law, such as many former congresses had refused to pass, was added to the federal statutes. The meat-inspection law also was passed by the 59th congress. This law secures wholesome meats for the people of this country and guarantees the quality of exported products. The results have proved highly beneficial to the manufacturers of meat products as well as to consumers.

These laws have struck telling blows for honesty in business. The moral standards of the nation are advanced, notably by the success that is secured by hook or by crook no longer is admired. Honorable success alone is soon to be worthy of emulation. Because this great change has been wrought with the help of the 59th congress, that body deserves to be remembered by the people with deep gratitude. It has passed other good legislation. What it ought to have done and yet failed to do is rendered so conspicuous by what it accomplished that the 60th congress is likely to find no excuse for not making good the omissions.

DID NOT ENJOY HIS RIDE.

Reporter Happened to Travel with His Friend, the Sheriff.

Reporters are in the general course of events the recipients of countless favors. Some courtesies extended to them, however, are prone to bring with them an aftermath that is not altogether pleasurable; as, for instance, the other day a reporter in a neighboring city accepted the kind offer of a police-court official to have a ride, when the official, by the way, was en route to the jail.

The reporter happened to be going that way, so accepted the favor. He had ridden but a block or two when he passed one of his acquaintances, who, looking up at him gave him a cold, glassy stare, and spoke out: "Gad!" thought the reporter to himself. "Does he think I've been pulled in?"

The circumstance was quickly dismissed and the reporter fell into conversation with the officer. Presently he glanced up to see two fashionably dressed lady acquaintances just crossing the street. They gave him one haughty glance, in which there was not a look of recognition, and swept on.

This passed the endurable mark. "I've got to get off here," he said to the officer. "Have an interview with an old fellow in this block; good day." He took a car back down town as quickly as possible.

Just as he alighted he bumped into one of the passengers and, glancing up, recognized one of the fashionably dressed acquaintances just passed. She colored visibly, then said hesitatingly, "How do you do?" He hasn't seen the man yet, and he has work for some time ahead making good from that ride.

CITY OFFICERS ON THE WITNESS STAND

Mayor Hutchinson and Others Testified Today in the Damage Action of Brown vs. Janesville.

Late yesterday afternoon the jury trying the action of William M. Hicks, et al. of New York City, vs. the Parker Pen Co. brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $303. The trial of John Brown's $1,000 damage action against the City of Janesville, was in progress all day today, and will probably not be finished until tomorrow. Stewart B. Hedges and Sanford Soverhill, who made estimates of the damage done to the crop on the 20-acre tract at the intersection of Magnolia and Oak Hill avenues by the flood of August 8, were on the stand this morning and Mayor J. P. Hutchinson followed them. He testified that a week before the storm he visited the farm at the request of Officer Brown and that the gutter on the north side of Magnolia road was filled with brush and that on the south side with weeds. There was an old stump on the south side of the culvert. Upon returning to the city he said that he notified Street Commissioner James Bennett of the condition of affairs; that the latter said that some of the aldermen had already called his attention to it, and that he would attend to it. Mayor Hutchinson testified that he visited the scene two days after the storm and found that the tobacco had been beaten down, potatoes washed out and the roots of sugar beets exposed to a depth of several inches. Atty. John Cunningham also testified as to the condition of the crops after the storm. Alderman W. H. Morrill is City Attorney. Maxfield's right hand man in the defense of the city's interests and sits with him at the desk inside the rail.

The valuable lesson of Lawson's exposures is that they prove that wealth made by speculation is for the privileged few.

The plain, unprivileged citizen who seeks wealth without work and who must get rich in a hurry is generally poorer before he is richer. Nevertheless a little money is handy when the opportunity comes for legitimate investment and the place to keep it during the waiting period is in one of our certificates of deposit. JUDGE FITZGERALD DEFIED BY JEROME

PROSECUTOR REFUSES TO SUBMIT AUTHORITIES.

ALMOST INSULTS COURT

Clash Enlivens an Otherwise Dull Session—Dr. Wagner, Insanity Expert, Still on the Stand.

New York, March 6.—Interest aroused in Tuesday's session of the trial of Harry K. Thaw by the announcement that Mrs. William Thaw, the mother of the defendant, was quickly taken by the continued cross-examination of Dr. Charles G. Wagner, one of the alienists for the defense, by District Attorney Jerome.

Dr. Wagner was on the stand the entire day and when adjournment was announced the district attorney seemed to have much ground yet to cover with the expert.

Mrs. Thaw was present in the witness room waiting to be called, but she may not be reached before late Wednesday or Thursday morning.

Jerome, clashes with Court. While decidedly dull in the matter of testimony elicited from the witness, Tuesday's session was made notable by a clash between District Attorney Jerome and Justice Fitzgerald, at the climax of which the prosecuting officer refused point blank to cite to the court the authorities upon which he was predicated an argument. Mr. Jerome was requested by the presiding judge to submit to him whatever authorities he had upon the subject.

"I have such a high respect for the courts of this jurisdiction," retorted Mr. Jerome, "that I will not submit authorities on a question of law which is so elemental in character and upon which the authorities are so abundant that I must presume the learned court knows of them."

With flushed face and a sharp rap of his gavel Justice Fitzgerald said if the district attorney did not submit the authorities the court would assume that he did not know of any. Mr. Jerome did not submit the authorities and Justice Fitzgerald ruled in favor of the defense on the point at issue, which, briefly stated, was the question as to whether the state on cross-examination should be allowed to go further with an expert witness than counsel for the defense was allowed to go upon direct examination.

Put Himself on Record. During the course of his argument the district attorney placed himself on record by saying that the legal assumption before the court now is that Harry K. Thaw is insane. He declared the alienists for the defense have shown Thaw to have been insane as late as September 22 last, and in the absence of proof to the contrary, the assumption is that he remains insane. Justice Fitzgerald declared that the present jury only has to do with the question of Thaw's sanity or insanity on the night that he shot and killed Stanford White.

ILLINOIS AFTER HARRIMAN.

Stead Takes Steps to Invalidate the Alton Bond Issue.

Washington, March 6.—Official steps have been taken by the state of Illinois to attack the validity of $32,000,000 in Alton railroad bonds issued by E. H. Harriman and his associates when they "reorganized" the Chicago & Alton Railroad company. The interstate commerce commission has received an application from William H. Stead, attorney general of the state of Illinois, asking for a complete transcript of all testimony taken by the interstate commerce commission in its hearing at New York regarding the Chicago & Alton railroad. As was shown the latter part of last week, the testimony tended to show that bonds had been issued direct to the syndicate and not in return for money, property or labor.

Out of Work, Kills Himself.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 6.—Rudolph M. Enz, 25 years old, of Findlay, Ohio, was found dead in his boarding house Monday morning, having taken carbolic acid with suicidal intent. A letter from his sister, telling him to "be good," and 20 cents were found on the body. It is thought Enz killed himself because of his failure to get employment.

Shooting in Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs, Col., March 6.—William E. Doyle, a prominent Democratic politician of this city, was shot but not fatally injured here Tuesday by Richard Irwin, a well known mining man, as the result of a quarrel in which Doyle and Mrs. Irwin engaged over a party-line telephone.

David W. Belding Is Dead.

Cincinnati, March 6.—David Wilson Belding, president and founder of the Belding Silk company, died at his home in this city Tuesday, aged 75 years. Mr. Belding retired from active business four years ago and had been in feeble health for some time. Death was due to paralysis.

ODD STORM IN PITTSBURG

SNOW FALLS, MERCURY DROPS AND FURIOUS GALE BLOWS.

One Woman Dies of Exhaustion—Prof. Brashear Lays Blame to Big Sun Spots.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 6.—From out of an apparently cloudless sky, and without an instant's warning, this city was suddenly enveloped in a snow storm that resembled a blizzard just before darkness fell Tuesday night.

For an hour all street car service was crippled, many lines being tied up because of the inability of motorists to see more than a few feet ahead of their cars. During the fury of the storm thunder and lightning were prevalent, telegraph and telephone lines were seriously affected, shutters and chimneys were blown down, pedestrians were obliged to seek shelter from a 53-mile northwest wind and persons all over the city were frightened by the weird storm.

Within half an hour the mercury dropped 15 degrees.

Miraculous escapes from injury were reported from all parts of the city, and up to midnight one death as a result of the storm was recorded.

A statement issued from the United States weather bureau Tuesday night was to the effect that the storm was one of the "most remarkable ever known." The mercury is rising again and the officials are at a loss for an explanation. A voluminous report covering every feature of the storm is being prepared.

Prof. John A. Brashear, of the Allegheny observatory, last week predicted, through the newspapers, that this vicinity would again experience phenomenal atmospheric conditions about the middle of this week. Prof. Brashear said the disturbance would be caused by the huge sun spots which he recently discovered.

Miss Sarah Stewart, 30 years old, was returning to her home in Allegheny. The gale whirled about her and overcame her. She struggled to a porch of the first house she came to, helpless and exhausted, she was taken in by the occupants, and immediately after she dropped dead of exhaustion.

STUDENT "RAFFLES" ARRESTED.

Son of Indiana Lawyer Admits Theft at Chicago.

Chicago, March 6.—Richard O. Hoops, 22 years old, a student at the Lake Forest university, son of Ira C. Hoops, a prominent lawyer of Kokomo, Ind., has been arrested by detectives of the central station and the police declared he had confessed to Capt. O'Brien of the detective bureau that he robbed the home of Robert Chatfield-Taylor, millionaire and prominent resident of Lake Forest, three weeks ago, and obtained property worth $5,000. Mr. Taylor is said to be traveling in Europe. The new "Raffles" was arrested at State and Van Buren streets Monday night, when it is declared, he was trying to dispose of jewelry in a pawn shop.

Following the arrest of Hoops, Detectives Mullen and Burns of the central station searched his room in a fraternity house at Lake Forest university, and found a trunk filled with property which he is said to have obtained in the burglary at the home of Mr. Chatfield-Taylor. The property recovered by the police consisted of diamond rings, silver plate, gold plate and valuable curios, a collection of years by Mr. Chatfield-Taylor.

Hoops admitted that he had been posing as a student in the daytime and committing robberies in the night. He said he lived in the fraternity hall with 12 other students of the Lake Forest college, but declared that none of his companions knew of his acts.

WON'T FIX RESPONSIBILITY.

Coroner's Verdict on Train Explosion at Sandford, Ind.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 6.—Coroner Leavitt Tuesday returned a verdict on the Sandford (Ind.) train explosion which occurred near here on the night of January 19, in which 15 passengers were killed. He found that inasmuch as the majority of the evidence as to the cause of the explosion had been destroyed, he could not fix the responsibility.

NATIONAL FORESTS FOR BENEFIT OF ALL

CHIEF FORESTER PINCHOT ANSWERS CRITICISMS.

EVERYTHING IS FOR USE

Timber Free to Home Builders and Grazing to Stockmen—All Kinds of Improvements Are Welcomed.

Washington, March 6.—Just what is intended to be done in the administration of the national forests, which include the 17,000,000 acres recently added to this domain, was set forth Tuesday by Gifford Pinchot, chief forester. The statement is in reality an answer to many points of criticism made in congress during the debate regarding forest reserves indulged in during the latter part of the session. It supplements the president's statement of Monday regarding his order creating the new reserves. The statement follows:

"National forests are created with the main object of using all their resources in the wisest way. Everything is for use; the timber, the range, the water, the land. Only those lands chiefly valuable for the production of timber or the protection of the water flow are included (in national forests). Little patches of agricultural land, small mountain meadows, and very inconsiderable areas of open grazing land must necessarily fall within their boundaries. All such tracts where cultivation is possible are being classified and are passing to private ownership through the act of June 11, 1906, which is an extension of the homestead law to the national forests.

Good Thing for the Miner. The miner is better off in a national forest than on the unreserved public domain. The mineral laws apply in precisely the same way. The prospector can explore and locate his claims without the slightest restriction.

"All timber and wood in the national forests is for use, and for prompt use. It is sold to the small men and to the big men. Everybody who needs timber to establish his home gets it free of charge when he asks for it. In the sale of timber there is no chance for monopoly, for the secretary of agriculture can sell as much or as little as he pleases, to whomsoever he pleases and for whatever price he deems fair for the best interests of all the people. The government gets a fair return for its timber, whereas before, under the timber and stone law, it practically gave it away and in such a manner that it was monopolized in vast tracts by corporate interests. And after it was out of the land was burned over and became non-productive waste.

Grazing Will Be Free.

"The range is used for the grazing of livestock. On those national forests created after March 1, 1907, there will be no interference with the grazing industry. Nor will any grazing fee be charged during this season on those national forests or additions thereto created after March 1, 1907. All stockmen who have regularly used the range will continue to do so without any interference from the forest service.

"The land within national forests is freely open to use as sites for hotels, stores, mills, residences and all other legitimate purposes. The greatest possible use of the land is desired. All kinds of improvements are not only permitted but are decidedly welcomed."

RHEUMATISM

AN ACID BLOOD POISON

Rheumatism is an acid blood poison, and the causes that produce it are often silently accumulating in the system for years. Poor digestion, stomach troubles, weak kidneys, torpid liver, and a general inactive condition of the system leaves the refuse and waste matter, which should be carried off, to sour and form uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. When the blood is in this acid-charged condition, it deposits the poisons and irritating particles with which it is loaded in the muscles, nerves, joints and bones. Then Rheumatism gets possession of the system, and life is made miserable by its pains, aches and discomforts. The changing of the weather, exposure to cold and dampness, etc., always increase the trouble, and so severe does the pain become that quick relief must be had. A good liniment or plaster is often helpful, but it should be remembered that relief from such treatment is only temporary, because the trouble is in the blood and cannot be removed by external applications. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by ridding the blood of the cause. It goes down into the circulation and by invigorating and purifying the blood of the acid-poison and sending a stream of fresh, rich blood to all parts, relieves the pain, reduces the inflammation, and permanently cures this painful disease. S. S. S. is the only safe treatment for Rheumatism, because it does not contain a particle of mineral in any form to damage the system. STEVENS MAKES DIRT FLY

REPORTS FAST WORK ON CUL-BRA CUT DURING FEBRUARY.

Kittredge, Burton and De Armond to Accompany Secretary Taft to the Isthmus.

Washington, March 6.—Chief Engineer Stevens is trying to make a record before he turns the Panama canal work over to his successor, Col. Goethals, as is evidenced by the following cablegram received from him Tuesday:

"Culebra.—Secretary of War, Washington.—In 23 working days, February, excavation Culebra cut was 638,644 yards. On same basis full month would have been 732,000 yards. March should go considerably over 800,000."

Secretary Taft has invited Senator Kittredge of South Dakota and Representatives Burton of Ohio and De Armond of Missouri to accompany him on his approaching trip to Cuba, the Isthmus of Panama and Porto Rico, and they have accepted the invitation in order to acquaint themselves with conditions in those places as a help to them in participating in the legislation in the next congress relative thereto.

Messrs. Noble, Stearns and Freeman, all engineers, will also be of the party, with the special purpose of examining the test pits that have been dug on the site of the projected locks at Gatun and giving the secretary the benefit of their professional opinions as to the work in progress.

The trip will be made in a naval vessel. The start will be made March 24, and the party will go directly to Colon, stop on the Isthmus two or three days, run over to Cuba, making a similar stop, and then go to Porto Rico. The stay there will be only for a day, and Gov. Winthrop, who is quitting the island to assume his new office as assistant secretary of the treasury, will accompany the party homeward.

DAVIS JURY IS COMPLETE.

Twelve Men Selected to Try Chicago
Theater Manager.

Danville, Ill., March 6.—The jury is now complete for the trial of Will J. Davis on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the Iroquois theater fire in Chicago, the last four jurors having been accepted by both sides at five o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The jury contains seven farmers, one blacksmith, one miner, one merchant, one real estate agent and one insurance solicitor. The introduction of evidence will be commenced Wednesday.

Vice President at Home Again.

Indianapolis, March 6.—Vice President Fairbanks, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Timmens, arrived home Tuesday from Washington. The vice president will give a reception to the members of the Indiana legislature at his home Wednesday evening. Mrs. Fairbanks will remain in Washington for a short time before coming to Indianapolis.

President's Son Out of Danger.

Washington, March 6.—Archie Roosevelt, the president's third son, who has been suffering from diphtheria since last Friday, Tuesday night was declared to be entirely out of danger by Surgeon General Rixey, the attending physician. "Archie passed a fine day," said Dr. Rixey, "and is doing as well as could possibly be expected."

FAIR PLAY.

The American People are Noted for Their Love of Fair Play. So True Is This, That It May Be Said To Be a National Trait of Character.

The man who strikes another a foul blow, or maliciously tries to injure him in his business, or in his social standing is detested and abhorred. The American people are not generally slow to manifest their disapproval of such unfair treatment, when an opportunity is afforded.

Illustration of this disposition is the fact that although base, false and malicious attacks upon Dr. Pierce's Family Medicine have sometimes injured the sale of these meritorious remedies for a time, yet when such unjust assaults have been met and their falsehoods completely refuted, a natural reaction has followed and their sale has been fully restored again.

In the case of the Indies' Home Journal, of Philadelphia, which, in 1904, published a most maliciously false, slanderous and libelous article, attacking Dr. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription"—the well-known cure for woman's peculiar weaknesses and distressing ailments—Dr. Pierce brought suit in the Supreme Court of the State of New York against the publishers of that paper, and a verdict was given the doctor, the amount being a substantial amount ($10,000.00) and not a cent for each of the subscribers of that paper. While he and his "Favorite Prescription" were being thus vindicated and the later remedy was proven in open court to contain no alcohol and none of the dangerous and injurious drugs which the above mentioned paper had alleged it contained, yet Dr. Pierce has, through his attorneys, moved for a new trial, trusting that thereby he may finally be accorded a more just and adequate compensation for the great damage which he was made to suffer by reason of the base falsehoods published concerning him and his business.

There are hundreds of thousands of people all over this blessed country of ours who have been cured of chronic diseases through the use of Dr. Pierce's Medicines and it is only natural that such people should rise up and speak their sentiments pretty freely when Dr. Pierce and his medicines are so unjustly attacked.

These grateful patients of Dr. Pierce are to be found in almost every hamlet and country village, and in the farm-houses and mechanics' cottages in every nook and corner of this great country. Common gratitude prompts such people to stand up and defend Dr. Pierce and his medicines against unjust and malicious attacks.

Dr. Pierce's Medicines have been on sale in drug stores all over this country and in many foreign lands for more than forty years and yet their sale continues to grow in a substantial and most gratifying way. This could not be the case if they were not remedies of more than ordinary merit.

WHAT DO THEY CURE?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not advertised as a "Cure All" but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a superior and most potent remedy for one class of diseases only—those easily recognized weaknesses, derangements, irregularities and painful disorders peculiar to women. It is a powerful yet gentle purgative, invigorating tonic and strengthening medicine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, whether it be from too frequent bearing of children, or from too many years and yet their sale continues to grow in a substantial and most gratifying way. This could not be the case if they were not remedies of more than ordinary merit.

As to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery it has a very large range of application, yet it is by no means recommended as a "Cure All." It possesses marvelous alternative or blood-cleansing properties and is at the same time a most invigorating tonic, or strength giver. It exerts a specific cleansing, soothing and healing effect upon all the itching humors, eruptions of the system, hence, its great curative value in all catarrhal affections, no matter where located.

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES

CHAPTER XXVII.

And So the Light Led Me.
He had been to see Sister Theresa, and Marian was waiting with him, to the gate. I saw her quite plainly in the light that fell from the lamp overhead. A long cloak covered her, and a fur toque capped her graceful head. My grandfather and his guide were apparently in high spirits and their laughter smote harshly upon me. It seemed to shut me out, to lift a barrier against me. The world lay there within the radius of that swaying light, and I hung aloof, hearing her voice and jealous of the very companionship and sympathy between them.

But the light led me. I remembered with bitterness that I had always followed her—whether as Olivia, trailing in her girlish grace across the snow, or as the girl in gray, whom I had followed on that night journey at Christmas eve; and I followed now. The distrust, my shattered faith, my utter loneliness, could not weigh against the joy of hearing that laugh of hers, breaking mellowly on the night.

I paused to allow the two figures to widen the distance between us as they traversed the path that curved away toward the chapel. I could still hear their voices, and see the lantern flash and disappear. I felt an impulse to turn back, or plunge into the wood-land, but I was carried on uncontrollably. The light glimmered and her voice still floated back to me. It stole through the keen winter dark like a memory of spring; and so her voice and the light led me.

Then I heard an exclamation of dismay followed by laughter, in which my grandfather joined merrily. "Oh, never mind; we're not afraid!" she exclaimed.

I had rounded the curve in the path where I should have seen the light; but the darkness was unbroken. There was silence for a moment, in which I drew quite near to them.

Then my grandfather's voice broke out cheerily:

"Now I must go back with you! A fine person you are to guide an old man! A foolish virgin, indeed, with no oil in her lamp!"

"Please do not!" Of course I'm going to see you quite to your own door! I don't intend to put my hand to the lantern and then turn back!"

"This walk isn't what it should be," said my grandfather, "we'll have to make a better one in the spring."

Then they were silent and I heard him furtively striking a match, when suddenly the lantern fell, its wires rattling as it struck the ground, and the two exclaimed with renewed merriment upon their misfortune.

"If you will allow me!" I called out, fumbling in my pocket for my own matchbox.

I have sometimes thought that there is really some sort of decent courtesy to me. An old man caught in a rough path that was none too good at best! And a girl, even though my enemy! But these were not, I fancy, the reflections that crossed my mind at the moment.

"Ah, it's Jack," exclaimed my grandfather. "Marian was showing me the way to the gate and our light went out."

"Miss Devoreux," I murmured. I have, I hope, an icy tone for persons who have incurred my displeasure, and I employed it then and there with, no doubt, its fullest value.

She and my grandfather were groping in the dark for the lost lantern.

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the passages two or three times a day with Dr. Pierce's Catarrh Remedy fluid, while persisting in the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific curative effects upon the diseased mucous membranes. It will cure a very large per cent. of all cases, even after they have reached the ulcerative, or chronic stage, and no matter how many years standing they may be. It is equally efficacious in all cases of the mucous lining of the trachea, bronchia and respiratory organs in general, thus curing bronchitis, laryngitis and other affections giving rise to obstinate, hang-on-coughs. It is not so good in acute coughs, but it cures colds as the lingering, chronic coughs. Nor must the "Golden Medical Discovery" be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that, but for all chronic hang-on-coughs due to laryngeal or bronchial irritation and kindred affections of the throat which, if neglected or badly treated, are likely to lead up to consumption, this "Discovery" can be relied upon to produce the best curative results.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is, from its tonic and specific curative control over mucous surfaces, especially efficacious in curing indigestion, dyspepsia, weak stomach and "Liver Complaint," or biliousness. Even ulceration of the stomach and bowels has in thousands of cases been cured by it; also obstinate chronic piles.

In addition to all the foregoing, not the least valuable of the marvelously efficacious properties possessed by the "Discovery" is its unequalled regulating and strengthening effect exerted by it over the heart's action. It has made some wonderful cures of very pronounced valvular and other affections of that organ.

The reason why "Golden Medical Discovery" is made plain in a booklet sent free on request made to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. If interested, send for it. The powerful alternative or blood purifying properties possessed by the "Discovery" will naturally suggest its use for the cure of blotches, pimples, eruptions, as eczema, salt-rheum, and other skin affections in all of which it has made remarkable cures and clear the system. A box will be mailed to any address on receipt of fifty-four cents in stamps. If your druggist don't have it in stock, address Dr. Pierce, as above.

CURES A COLD IN ONE DAY
PREVENTS THE GRIP

Similarly named remedies sometimes deceive. The first and original Cold Tablet is a WHITE PACKAGE with black and red lettering, and bears the signature of
E. M. Grove

"One moment," I said, "and I'll see what's the trouble."

I thought my grandfather took it, but the flame of my wax match showed her fingers clasping the wire frame. The cloak slipped away, showing her arm's soft curve, the purple blur of violets; and for a second I saw her face, with a smile quivering about her lips. My grandfather was beating the ground impatiently with his stick, urging us to leave the lantern and go on.

"Let it alone," he said. "I'll go down through the chapel; there's a lantern in there somewhere."

"I'm awfully sorry," she said, "but I recently lost my best lantern!"

To be sure she had! I was angry that she should so brazenly recall the night I found her looking for Pickering's notes in the passage at the Door of Bewilderment!

She had lifted the lantern now, and I was striving to touch the wax taper to the wick, with imminent danger to my bare fingers.

"They don't really light well when the oil's out," she observed, with an exasperating air of wisdom.

I took it from her hand and shook it close to my ear.

"Yes; of course, it's empty," I muttered disdainfully, and threw it from me.

"Oh, Mr. Glenarm!" she cried, turning away toward my grandfather.

I heard his stick beating the rough path several yards away. He was hastening toward Glenarm House.

"I think Mr. Glenarm has gone home."

"Oh, that is too bad!" she exclaimed.

"Thank you! He's probably at the chapel by this time. If you will permit me—"

"Not at all!"

A man in the sixties should not tax his arteries too severely. I was quite sure that my grandfather ran up the chapel steps. I could hear his stick beating hurriedly on the stones.

"If you wish to go farther"—I began.

I was indignant at my grandfather's conduct; he had deliberately run off, leaving me alone with a young woman whom I had resolved never to see again.

"Thank you; I shall go back now. I was merely walking to the gate with Mr. Glenarm. It is so fine to have him back again, so unbelievable!"

It was just such a polite murmur as one might employ in speaking to an old foe at a friend's table.

She listened a moment for his step; then, apparently satisfied, turned back toward St. Agatha's. I followed, uncertain, hesitating, marking her definite onward flight. From the folds of her cloak stole the faint perfume of violets. The sight of her, the sound of her voice, combined to create—and to destroy!—a mood with every step.

I was seeking some colorless thing to say when she spoke over her shoulder:

"You are very kind, but I am not the least afraid, Mr. Glenarm."

"But there is something I wish to say to you, now that we have met. I should like—"

She slackened her step.

"Yes."

"I am going away."

"Yes; of course; you are going away."

Her tone implied that this was something that had been ordained from the beginning of time, and did not matter.

"And I wish to say a word about Mr. Pickering," I added.

She paused and faced me abruptly. We were at the edge of the wood, and the school lay quite near. She caught the cloak closer about her and gave her head a little toss I remembered well, as a trick compelled by the vagaries of woman's headdress.

"I can't talk to you here, Mr. Glenarm; I had no intention of ever seeing you again; but I must say this to you—"

"Those notes of Pickering's—I shall ask Mr. Glenarm to give them to you—as a mark of esteem from me."

She stepped backward as though I had struck her.

"You risked much for them—and for him!" I went on.

"Mr. Glenarm, I have no intention of discussing that, or any other matter with you—"

"It is better so—"

"But your accusations, the things you imply, are unjust, infamous!"

The quaver in her voice shook my resolution to deal harshly with her.

he shall go free."

A sigh so deep that it was like a sob broke from her. She thrust forth her hand entreatingly.

"Why don't you go to him with your generosity? You are so ready to believe ill of me! And I shall not defend myself; but I will say these things to you, Mr. Glenarm: I had no idea, no thought of seeing him at the Armstrong's. It was a surprise to me—and to them—when he telegraphed he was coming. And when I went into the tunnel there under the wall that night, I had a purpose—a purpose—"

"Yes?" She paused and I bent forward, earnestly waiting for her words, knowing that here lay her great confiding.

"I was afraid—I was afraid that Mr. Glenarm might not come in time; that you might be dispossessed—lose the fight, and I came back with Mr. Pickering because—that was the easiest and quickest way—and I thought some dreadful thing might happen here to you—"

She turned and ran from me with the speed of the wind, the cloak fluttering out darkly about her. At the door, under the light of the lamp, I was close upon her. Her hand was on the vestibule latch.

"But how should I have known?" I cried, "when you had taunted me with my imprisonment at Glenarm; you had dared me to follow you. If you can tell me—if there is an answer to that—"

"I shall never tell you anything—more! You were so eager to think ill of me—to accuse me!"

"It was because I love you! It was my jealousy of that man, my boyhood enemy, that made me catch at any doubt! You are, so beautiful—you are so much a part of the peace, the charm of all this! I had hoped for springs—for you and the spring together!"

"Oh, please—!"

Her flight had shaken the tongue to an unwonted angle; her breath came quick and hard as she tugged at the latch eagerly. The light from overhead was full upon us, but I could not go with hope and belief struggling unsatisfied in my heart. I seized her hands and sought to look into her eyes.

"But you challenged me—to follow you! I want to know why you did that!"

She drew away, struggling to free herself.

"Why was it, Marian?"

"Because I wanted—"

"Yes?"

"I wanted you to come, Squire Glenarm!"

My history of the affair at Glenarm has overrun the bounds I had set for it, and these, I submit, are not days for the desk and pen. Marian is turning over the sheets of manuscript that lie at my left elbow and demanding that I quit work for a walk abroad. My grandfather is pacing the terrace outside, planning, no doubt, those changes in the grounds that are his constant delight.

Of some of the persons concerned in this winter's tale let me say a word more. The prisoner whom Larry left behind we discharged after several days with all the honors of war, and (I may add without breach of confidence) a comfortable indemnity. Larry has made a reputation by his book on Russia—a searching study into the conditions of the Czar's empire, and, having squeezed that lemon, he is now in Tibet. His father has secured from the British government a promise of immunity for Larry, so long as that amiable adventurer keeps away from Ireland. My friend's latest letters to me contain, I note, no reference to The Sod.

Bates is in California conducting a fruit ranch, and when he visited us last Christmas he bore all the marks of a gentleman whom the world uses well. Stoddard's life has known many remarkable changes in the three years that have passed, but they must wait for another day, and perhaps, another historian. Suffice it to say that it was he who married us—Marian and me—in the little chapel by the wall, and that when he comes now and then to visit us, we renew our impression of him as a man large of body and of soul. Sister Theresa continues at the head of St. Agatha's, and she and the other Sisters of her brown-clad company are delightful neighbors. Pickering's failure and subsequent disappearance were described sufficiently in the newspapers, and his name is never mentioned at Glenarm.

As for myself—Marian is tapping the floor restlessly with her boot and I must hasten. I may say that I am no idler. It was I who carried on the work of finishing Glenarm House, and I manage the farms, which my grandfather has lately acquired in this neighborhood. But better still, from my own point of view, I maintain in Chicago an office as consulting engineer, and I have already had several important commissions.

Glenarm House is now what my grandfather had wished to make it: a beautiful and dignified mansion. He insisted on filling up the tunnel, so that the Door of Bewilderment is no more. The passage in the wall and the strong box in the paneling of the chimney-breast remain, though the latter we use now as a hiding place for certain prized bottles of rare whisky which John Marshall Glenarm ordains shall be taken down only on Christmas Eves, to drink the health of Olivia Gladys Armstrong. That young woman, I may add, is now a belle in her own city, and of the scores of youngsters all the way from Pittsburgh to New Orleans who lay siege to her heart, my word is, may the best man win!

Marian—the most patient of women—is walking toward the door, eager for the sunshine, the free air of spring, the blue vistas lakeward; and at last I am ready to go.

The End.

WHIPS SCATTER MOB IN ST. PETERSBURG

GREAT REVOLUTIONARY DEMONSTRATION IS MADE.

COSSACKS CALLED OUT

Forbearance of Prefect Prevents Repetition of "Red Sunday" Massacre—Premier Stolypin Fears Assassination.

St. Petersburg, March 6.—The opening of the drama, or lower house of the Russian parliament Tuesday, although in itself devoid of incident, was made the occasion of a great revolutionary demonstration by the St. Petersburg proletariat and the students of the city which resulted in several encounters between the police and the populace and more or less serious injury to a number of the latter.

The situation was such that the authorities finally were forced to fill the streets with military patrols, as in the ominous days of the Trepoff regime.

After the adjournment of the session of the house a tumultuous crowd, by this time estimated to number close to 40,000 persons, with red banners flying and accompanied by the music of revolutionary chants, started, like the followers of Father Gapon on January 22, 1905, toward the central square of the city where the winter palace of the emperor is located. Few elements of the prelude of "Red Sunday" were lacking, and the command "fire" would have precipitated similar massacre. But the present prefect of St. Petersburg, Gen. Drachefski, followed another course and dispersed the procession by charges of mounted gendarmes armed with whips, and by an imposing display of force he prevented the demonstrators from reforming.

Police Are Not Harsh. During the long hours of the morning and afternoon the police guarding the Tauride palace acted with great forbearance, giving the spectators a free vent in singing and cheering, and only interfering to prevent the people from forcing their way into the palace.

When the deputies emerged after the adjournment of the session the temper of the crowd was fired by speeches from social revolutionary members, a dozen of whom mounted upon the shoulders of their followers and harangued those present upon the necessity of organizing to support parliament against the government. The social revolutionary motto, "Through fight our right," was adopted as a general slogan, and simultaneously red handkerchiefs began to flutter above the heads of the crowd and then the crimson banners appeared like magic. The crowd, singing the Marseillaise and battle songs of the Russian revolution, then moved slowly down the broad Fourchtadskaya avenue, stopping at intervals to listen to speeches and to sing.

Gendarmes Use Whips. It demonstrated on the way in front of the house of the chief of the secret police, where a small force of gendarmes made an attempt to disperse the people, but soon fell back in the face of the resolute bearing of the manifestants, who followed them with cries of "hangers, bloodhounds." Meanwhile the authorities had hastily concentrated a strong force of gendarmes, which charged the head of the procession when it reached the Litolny prospect, one of the main business avenues of the city. The gendarmes plied their whips vigorously, and in one case used the flats of their sabres. The crowd attempted to reassemble in front of the detention prison, where hundreds of political prisoners are confined, and again in front of the general court building, where the political trials are held, but in each instance it was dispersed.

Couldn't Face Cossacks. The gendarmes by this time had been reinforced by detachments of the Chevalier guards, who galloped hither and thither, clearing the roadway amid curses of derision from the sidewalks. Finally a large force of Cossacks, armed with lances, arrived in sight. The spiteful, red-pennoned weapons, which never before had been brought out in street demonstrations, took all the heart out of the crowd.

Another monster demonstration was held at the university to the "victory of revolutionary democracy." The quay along the Neva and the streets in the neighborhood of the university were densely packed, but there was no interference by troops or police, who arrived on the scene in strong force, only after the demonstration had come to an end.

It was learned Tuesday night that Premier Stolypin, in order to diminish his chances of possible assassination, would spend the night in the Tauride palace, and it is understood that he has taken a suite of rooms in a wing of the palace which he will occupy as long as parliament is in session.

Wealthy Widow Found Dead. Cleveland, O., March 6.—Mrs. Minnie Sherman, a wealthy widow residing in the exclusive village of Euclid, on Euclid avenue, was found dead in her home Tuesday night under circumstances pointing to murder. The police are working on the theory that the woman was drugged with poison and robbed.

INSIDE HISTORY OF THE SPEECHES

(Continued from page 2.) Eastern shore of Virginia, and County of Northampton; aged 71 years, and yet lived but seven years which was the space of time he kept a bachelor's home at Arlington on the Eastern shore of Virginia.

This Hon. John Custis was the father of Daniel Parke Custis, the first husband of Martha Washington, in my collection of curious epitaphs is one that might find an echo in the hearts of many hundreds who have not had the same recorded on the stone that covers their remains. It tells nothing, except by inference, of what the poor woman did, but it gives much of what she hoped for. Here lies a poor woman who always was tired.

Who lived in a house where help was not hired; Her last words on earth were: "Dear friends, I am going. Where washing is not done, nor sweeping, nor sewing. But everything there is exact to my wishes."

For where they don't eat, there's no washing of dishes. I'll be where loud anthems will always be ringing. But having no voice, I'll get clear of the singing.

Don't mourn for me now; don't mourn for me never; I am going to do nothing forever and ever. It is not unusual to find chronicled a list of the public offices or the private virtues held or possessed by the deceased. In an Ohio cemetery, standing not far apart from each other, are two stones worthy of notice. On one is recited:

Erected to the Memory of JACOB EASTON, A Worthy Citizen.

For twenty-five years he was a Justice of the Peace; for ten years he was a member of the town council; for five years Secretary of the School Board, three times a member of the house of representatives and twice a senator. He Sleeps Well.

The inscription on the other is of somewhat different character, yet bears the impress of the same boastful spirit: In memory of CHARLES JAMES EMERSON.

For more than fifty years he was a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal church; forty years of that time he was a class leader; for seven years he served as district steward and also as trustee; for more than thirty years he was active in the Sunday School, serving thirteen years as Superintendent. He was the largest contributor to the benevolences of the church and gave twelve hundred dollars to erect the new church building.

Many a tragedy of life or of the heart is hidden in churchyard inscriptions. I member visiting a little country graveyard in Northern Georgia, a few years ago, where I found just such a tragedy recorded. In a quiet corner of the graveyard was a modest stone, on which I read:

UNKNOWN. "A federal soldier; he came wounded to our home and gave his life defending it from bushwhackers, after having killed five of them with his own hand. This stone is erected by John and Martha Griswold, whose home he saved. He was a hero, and God took him."

A number of years ago a stone was uncovered in the forest in one of the southern counties of Indiana. After much labor the following terse inscription, telling of a forest tragedy, was deciphered:

"A stranger killed and skulped by a Shawnee. I skulped the Shawnee."

The following epitaph, found in a Kentucky graveyard, is the grandest I have yet found:

AUNT ELIZA SHUBERT. She was born, she lived—she died. Born in Poverty she lived a long life of toil and died mourned by all the community.

Everyone in distress went to her for Comforting Words. For nearly fourscore years she walked with God and is now, for God, took her.

Reads So "Easy."

A French mariner thinks advantage may be taken of the favorable winds at the edge of a cyclone for facilitating navigation. By means of observations with the barometer and other instruments, he would ascertain the direction in which the storm is going and so shape the course of the ship that it would be carried along by the sweep of the atmosphere without being involved in the dangerous center of the storm.

Eloquent Addition. Sanpantino went to inspect the splendid monument of a tomb which he had erected to the memory of his dead wife, but did not like the inscription. "Here she sleeps," thinking it said too little. The sculptor suggested that he might add something else, whereupon Sanpantino said: "Well, then, put 'Sst! Do not awaken her!'"—La Caricaturista.

The Passing of Love. Love is not so irresistible a factor as it was, and there is a tendency for the members of either sex to retire to opposite camps and snarl at each other. Circumstances are removing the center of happiness from the heart to the pocket.—London Graphic.

Economical Gas Making.

In Germany gas is manufactured on canal boats and used to supply the engines which propel the boats. The system is economical and satisfactory on moderate-sized boats.

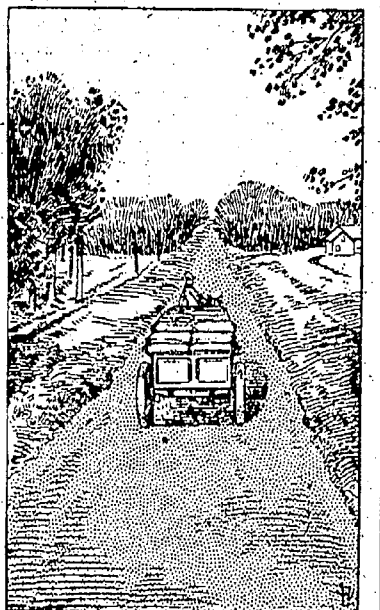

VALUE OF WIDE TIRES

CANADIAN DOCTOR TELLS HOW THEY BENEFIT ROADS.

Have a Greater Bearing and Do Not Cut Into Them—He Favors Tires Four Inches Wide—How They Destroy Ruts.

A vast amount of the present wear and tear of, and injury to roads could readily be avoided by using wide instead of narrow tires on heavily loaded wagons, says Dr. J. O. Reimue of Toronto, Canada, in the Motor News. Narrow wagon tires are the great destroyers of good roads. The injury done by these increases as the wagon gets older and the wheel wobbles loosely on the axle. A narrow tire on an old and heavily loaded wagon can do more damage to a road in one trip to market and back than would pay for a new wagon.

Wide tires, on the other hand, are a benefit rather than an injury to the road. They have a greater bearing and do not cut into the road. Instead of two inches of road surface supporting the load, wagon and all, by doubling the width of the tire the load is distributed over twice the amount of road surface. In making wagons consideration should be given not merely to the strength of the wagon and its wheels,

but also to the strength of the roads to be traveled and the kind of wagon they have strength to support.

Tests have been made from time to time of the effect of wide tires not merely on the roads, but also on the pull required to move the loads. Among these tests have been those made by the British Association for the Advancement of Science in 1902, by the experimental station of Missouri university of 1897 and more recently by the United States war department. The results in all cases have been practically the same:

First.—With regard to the roads it is found that wide tires leave a road in better condition than before passing over it.

Second.—As to tractive effect, the only practical disadvantage of wide tires arises where the road is so soft that the wheels sink into it and the mud sticks to the rims and packs between the spokes. On very hard, smooth roads or roads covered with dust wide tires require a very slightly increased tractive effort. On all other classes of roads the advantage is in favor of the wide tire.

The practical application of the result of tests is that for traffic on country roads if wide tires of four inches and upward are generally used there would be a decided improvement in every class of road. The tractive power required would be less and the cost of keeping the roads in repair would be much reduced. If all farm wagons were equipped with wide tires, the mudstick and stickiest of our roads would be very much improved and many of what are now known as bad roads would be, for the most part of the year in fair condition.

While the majority of wagons continue to have narrow tires, the few having wide tires are heavier to draw on very muddy and sticky clay roads, but on the great majority of roads, the average country roads, the advantage is in favor of the tire four inches wide. It is urged against wide tires that they do not roll freely in the ruts made by narrow tires. So long as narrow tires are commonly used this will be the case to some extent; but, on the other hand, if wide tires were generally used the ruts would not exist.

In any case, with narrow tires the bottom of the ruts made by the narrow tires are uneven, and the narrow tires are constantly grinding against the sides of the ruts, creating the greatest friction, so that the objectionable difference is not so great as it appears on first sight, if it exists at all. It is further contended that the wide tires come in contact with more loose stones than do those with a narrow tread. The greater resistance offered in this way is more than counterbalanced, however, by the loose stones dropping into the narrow ruts.

In the one case the wheel goes to the stone; in the other the stone gets in front of the wheel. The irregular bottom of the ruts and the stones in the narrow ruts keep up a constant vibration of the wagon, which transmits a swinging motion to the tongue, galling and annoying the horses and destructive to conveyances.

A provincial law coming into effect after a term of years requiring a stated width of tire for certain sizes of wagon axles would not create hardship, might be accompanied by a rebate of taxes or a small bounty and would result in a benefit to the roads, decreasing the cost of maintenance.
